Our 1 ½ year old daughter got asthmatic bronchitis when she was 6 months old. We weren't happy about having to use an asthma spacer on her, and she wasn't happy about it either. She had to use it 2 times a day for 3 weeks. We were going to get a big air purifier at work, so I contacted Kirsten at Air-Tech. She thoroughly described how the air purifier worked. We talked about it at home and thought the purifier could help our daughter. It must be said that we both smoke, but under the extractor fan when she's home, though there are still particles in the air. We've now been using the air purifier for a year and our daughter's asthmatic bronchitis is almost gone. She only uses the asthma spacer when she has very bad colds and her breathing is good again after a few days.

The undersigned, Bjarne Olsen (49 year old smoker), has been suffering from asthma for 5 years. I found out about the Air-Tech MAC500 air purifier through some acquaintances who were using it. I bought a MAC500 and have been using it for a month now. This has resulted in not using the inhaler, sleeping through the night, my head doesn't feel heavy in the morning, haven't had headaches, and my home doesn't smell like smoke. All in all, I feel that my everyday life has improved, so I can highly recommend using the MAC500 air purifier.

We've had a MAC500 at my workplace for the last few months. Since I have allergies and asthma that are treated with medication, I'm very sensitive to airborne pollutants. There's a huge difference since the MAC500 was installed because it feels like there is fresh air in the room all the time, even if someone is smoking cigarettes. I'm therefore very happy that my work bought an air purifier, since the environment is much better than before.

Re: my MAC500 air purifier. I basically haven't used my inhaler at all since I got my air purifier in August 2004. We visited Jutland and I didn't have the purifier with me. It rained a lot during the days while we were there and I had to use my inhaler on the second night. I generally feel much better since getting the air purifier. It runs from when I go to bed until I get out of bed.

For the last 8 years, I've had allergies and asthma for which I take medication daily. When I saw a little advertisement for the MAC500 air purifier in "Hendes Verden" magazine I thought, "I can give it a try." The purifier is set up in the bedroom, it's turned on an hour before bedtime, and the air is clean before I go to bed. Since using the MAC500, I now feel perky and well-rested in the morning. And the best thing of all is that I no longer have a stuffed nose. Even my husband, who does NOT have allergies, feels livelier in the morning. I therefore warmly recommend the MAC500 to others with similar problems.

I've now had my two air purifiers for over 2 months and I've definitely gotten better. I no longer have respiratory problems and I'll get even better as time goes by, I have no doubt about that. The MAC500 has a nice look that discreetly blends into the environment, it's almost completely silent, and it's incredibly effective.

It was completely by chance that I came to buy the MAC500 and it was truly a blessing for me because now I know how big of a difference air purifiers make. So I was just very fortunate. Thank you very much.

Because my wife and entire family are non-smokers, as a considerate smoker I try and go outside if I want to enjoy a cigarette. That's easy enough in the summer... but when it's raining, stormy, or freezing outside it's not too much fun. So, my little 4m x 4m home office has become the "smoking room" for me and any guests that happen to smoke. Although I've used various ventilation and filter systems, I always heard the same complaint, "The smell of smoke doesn't just stay in the room, it finds its way to the rest of the house, even if the door is closed." Just in time for the coming winter season I found the solution to the problem: I installed a MAC500 in the home office (which smelled hideously of smoke). I turned on the little nifty device, a bit sceptically. I then smoked a fag, and then smoked some more as I read the day's emails and such. I left the office a couple hours later and left the machine on to work. I was surprised when I "investigated" the office a few hours later. The smell of smoke was considerably diminished and a "cool and fresh scent" had begun to spread through the room. The next evening I was convinced. The machine had really replaced the stuffy smell of smoke with a fresh and neutral scent. Even my otherwise critical wife – and later, my family – had to admit that it worked... so the MAC500 machine is here to stay. 14 days of experience with the device indicate that it is still able to purify the air, even after intense smoking for a long period. There have been no complaints from the wife since I installed the device. P.S. I leave the device on at overnight. I usually turn it off when I leave for work in the morning because it doesn't need to be running when the ashtray is empty or not there. A few days ago, the MAC500 was running when I got home. The wife had turned it on and used the office to hang and air-out a few sweaters since it was wet and cold outside. I can only recommend the MAC500 to others; both smokers and non- smokers.
